

eSentio Technologies Welcomes Andy Ward as Global Director of Information Governance

Veteran industry expert joins global professional services firm to serve global client needs, drive revenue growth, foster innovation and bolster leadership team

WASHINGTON, DC, June 10, 2025 – eSentio Technologies, a leading provider of strategic technology consulting services to the world's largest law firms, proudly announces the appointment of Andy Ward as Global Director of Information Governance. As Director, Andy will spearhead governance-focused strategies, bringing his extensive experience in information governance, legal technology, cybersecurity, compliance and data privacy to empower eSentio's journey of continued growth. Andy's appointment is particularly significant as he will spearhead initiatives to address the evolving needs of global law firms. His profound expertise in information governance will be vital in assisting these firms with their complex requirements, including compliance with GenAI (Generative AI) regulations. His leadership will ensure that eSentio Technologies continues to offer top-tier services in managing the intricate landscape of information governance for the legal sector.

With two decades of experience across law firms, software companies, and consulting businesses, Andy has helped firms enhance and transform their information and data governance strategies, driving legal technology and digital transformation in the US and UK markets.

Ward holds CIPP, IGP, CFE, and CEDS credentials and is an active ILTA member. Specializing in the Microsoft tech stack, including Azure and Purview, he has deep experience working with generative AI-powered tools across DMS solutions, eDiscovery platforms, and information governance.

“Andy’s appointment as Global Director of Information Governance further solidifies eSentio’s leadership position in providing strategic Information Governance services to the global law firm market. His history of success with large law clients, industry expertise and strategic vision will all be instrumental in our continued commitment to solving complex business challenges in partnership with our clients. We look forward to his contributions in our future growth plans,” said eSentio President and CEO, Yvonne Dornic. “Andy embodies the spirit and the culture of eSentio, and we look forward to the transformative impact he will have on our organization.”

Andy’s expertise and experience will play a vital role in the continued development of eSentio’s global go-to-market strategy and mix of solutions based on the evolving needs of global law firms. His focus on cross-enterprise collaboration will drive the company’s unified vision and growth goals.

“eSentio’s strategic vision, especially in governance and compliance, aligns with my passion for harnessing the monumental amount of change happening in our industry for the betterment of firms,” said Andy. “I’m excited about the opportunity to play a significant role in helping eSentio grow, while continuing to maintain its consultative approach. I’m eager to leverage my experiences to enhance our strengths in governance solutions, compliance and industry standards.”
